Cookie Policy

This document provides Users with information regarding the technologies that enable this Application to achieve the purposes described below.

Such technologies allow the Controller to collect and store information (for instance, by means of a cookie) or to utilize resources (for example, by executing a script) on the User's device when the User interacts with this Application.

For the sake of clarity, all such technologies are collectively referred to in this document as “Tracking Tools”, unless a distinction is expressly required.

For example, although cookies may be used on both desktop and mobile web browsers, it would be inappropriate to refer to cookies in the context of mobile applications, as cookies are tracking tools that presuppose the presence of a browser.

Accordingly, within this document the term Cookie is used solely to indicate that specific type of Tracking Tool.

Certain purposes for which Tracking Tools are employed may require the User's prior consent, in accordance with Articles 6 and 7 of EU Regulation 2016/679 (GDPR). Where such consent is granted, the User may withdraw it freely at any time by following the instructions set out in this document.

This Application uses Tracking Tools managed directly by the Controller (so-called “first-party” Tracking Tools) as well as Tracking Tools that enable services provided by third parties (so-called “third-party” Tracking Tools).

Unless otherwise specified herein, third-party providers have access solely to the Tracking Tools they themselves manage.

The validity and expiration period of cookies and other similar Tracking Tools may vary depending on the settings established either by the Controller or by each individual third-party provider. Certain Tracking Tools expire at the end of the User's browsing session.

In addition to the information provided within the description of each category of Tracking Tools below, Users may obtain more detailed and up-to-date information regarding the specific retention periods—as well as any other relevant information, including the presence of additional Tracking Tools—in the privacy policies of the respective third-party providers (accessible through the provided links), or by contacting the Controller directly, in accordance with Articles 13 and 14 of EU Regulation 2016/679 (GDPR).
